July 1, 2010

End of trail: Mt. Springer in Georgia on November 24, 2010

Robert Raab originally just wanted to hike the Appalachian trail, but after reading A Walk for Sunshine and looking for direction, was inspired in church to do a fund raising hike for Delaware County Habitat for Humanity after hearing about its Apostles Build II project.

Habitat for Humanity seeks to eliminate homelessness. Hike for Habitat also seeks to preserve homes of wildlife in the Appalachians.

The Appalachian Trail houses more than 2,000 occurrences of rare, threatened, endangered, and sensitive plant and animal species.
